THE SEXES.

Why Men are Likely to Become Scarce in Time. It appears from published statistics of the world's population that women have a greater tensoity of life than men. Na ture worships the female in all its varie ties. Among insects the male perisher at a relatively earlier period. In plants the seminate blossoms die ea fist, and are produced in the weaker limbs. Fe. male quadrupeds have more endurance then males. In the human race, despite the intellectual and physical strength o the man, the wo nan endures the longest. and will heat pain to which the strong man succumbs. Z'motic diseases are more faral to males, and more male chil dren die than female. D verga asser's that the proportion dying suddenly is shout one women to s ven mer; one thousand and eighty men in the U ited States, in 1879, committed sciente, to two hundred and eighty-five women In temperance, apoplexy, gout, hydrocephalus, affections of the heart and liver, scrofuls, paralysis, are far more fatal to males than females. Pulmonary, con aging editor's desk, wai ing for an apsamption, on the other hand is more pointment on the regular-s'aff. deadly to the latter. Females in cities are more prone to consumption than in wisting to let the candidate down easy the country. All old countries not disfemales in the population. In roval famllies the statistics show more daughters youth's dandiged dre-a. than sone The Hebrew woman is exis exceptionally short-lived.
